ECON 100B: Macroeconomics

Final Review

April 30, 2026

Announcements

- Problem Set 4 is available and is due on Friday, May 1
- All students get to drop their lowest PS score. If you have scored 100% on PS1, PS2, and PS3, you can skip PS4. But I don't recommend it
- There are now two previous final exams available on Drive: Spring 2011 and Spring 2014. (Note that Spring 2011 was 120 minutes)
- The Final exam is confirmed for Monday, May 11
 - Just like at midterm, the main class meets here in Pimentel 1
 - We will run 90 minutes from about 3:00-4:30PM
 - DSP students: Please either make a proctoring appointment, or for 150% time only, we will have Anthropology and Art Practice 160
(I think it's kind of near Caffe Strada on Bancroft)

Academic Dishonesty

It is rare.

Please don't.

We will engage and follow through to completion.

Students will earn their straight percentage grade, because it will be better than a curved grade. Grades won't be affected by dishonesty.

But we still might feel psychological effects. We will police this and see it through.

Current events

- The Federal Reserve's Federal Open Market Committee (FOMC) met this week and announced on Wednesday:
 - Vote was 8-4 to
 - Keep the fed funds target rate unchanged 3.5-3.75% AND
 - "In considering the extent and timing of additional adjustments to the target range for the federal funds rate, the Committee will carefully assess incoming data, the evolving outlook, and the balance of risks."
 - (In Fed-speak, this apparently is an "easing bias" toward a lower fed funds target)
 - Three regional bank presidents voted against the easing bias
 - One governor (Miran, appointed by Trump, seat will be filled by Warsh) voted for 0.25% easing
- Chair Powell announced he would step down as chair but would not resign from the FRB "to defend the institution from what he called unprecedented legal attacks from the Trump administration."
